

I am a publisher by profession. I have lived all my life in Kolkata, a city I am proud to call my home. I love travelling around and have a special soft corner for the Himalayas. Photography is a natural offshoot to my passion for travelling. I started off with an Agfa Click III camera when I was 7, moved on to a Polaroid and then to Minolta SLRs in the 90s. Emergence of digital photography changed things altogether. I went Digital with a Sony Compact in 2003 and finally graduated to DSLR, thanks to this site, in Dec 2006. What began merely as an effort to post some of my amateurish attempts at photography, soon became an addiction, a part of my daily routine..
